

The American Harp Journal is published biannually and sent to all members of the American Harp Society. It contains articles designed to inform and educate harpists about the harp and to leave an accurate record of the activities of the Society.

The American Harp Journal includes:

- Biographies of major harp figures of the past and present
- Bibliographies and historical studies
- Listings of new harp publications and recordings
- Articles of educational content
- Articles concerning harp maintenance and construction
- The Teacher's Forum (dedicated to the needs of the harp teacher)
- Uncle Knuckles Knews (designed for students under 13)

The American Harp Society, Inc.

The American Harp Society was founded in 1962 to assist, encourage and unify harp performers, teachers and students. Today, there are over 3,000 individual members in the Society with over 70 state and local chapters throughout North and South America, Canada and Puerto Rico.

The American Harp Society is open to professionals, amateurs, folk harpers and all those who have an interest in the harp. The Society strives to foster and cultivate the appreciation of the harp as an instrument and to encourage the highest quality of harp playing, harp composition and harp manufacturing.
